

PROJECT TEAM

TIM HUNTLEY, DIRECTOR

Tim Huntley is an accomplished editor and director having worked on the IMAX films, Alaska: Spirit of the Wild, Africa: The Serengeti, Search for the Great Sharks, and Ring of Fire. As editor, music director and co-writer, his past four IMAX films have grossed over $300 million worldwide in theatrical sales. In 1985, Tim won an Academy Award for his short film, Up, in the Best Short Film-Live Action category, and in 1998 Alaska was nominated for an Academy Award in Best Documentary-Short Subject. Among his other accomplishments include Academy Award nominations for his short films Fall Line and Solo, the latter also being the most seen and highest grossing short film ever made. His current project, Animalopolis, takes viewers on a comedic journey into the magical world of animals.

PAUL NOVROS, PRODUCER

Paul Novros brings a rare combination of creative talents to Graphic Films. He has worked as producer, writer, editor, sound recordist and film scorer on more than 30 documentary films, including five films that received Academy Award nominations. He is an instructor at California Institute of Arts, a recipient of the Community of Arts medal from the Institute, and a member of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. Some of his Large Format film credits include The Eruption of Mount St. Helens, Great Barrier Reef, Seasons, Ring of Fire, Search for the Great Sharks, Africa: The Serengeti, Alaska: Spirit of the Wild, and Forces of Nature.

K2 COMMUNICATIONS, DISTRIBUTOR

Recognized as leaders in the Giant Screen industry, K2 brings a wealth of success and experience in all aspects of production oversight, global distribution, and marketing. Beyond theatrical distribution, K2 was first to recognize and capitalize on the television aftermarket, acquiring a library of 65 films independently produced for IMAX® and other Giant Screen theaters, which they converted to high quality HD format. Their library of films is now playing on television in 40 countries worldwide, and has been licensed to other media including Internet sites, airlines, cruise ships and hotel rooms. To solidify its leadership role in the industry, K2 Communications also operates the only comprehensive Giant Screen consumer/fan website, BigMovieZone.com. www.k2communications.com
